Private Instruction - Trial lessons

- All prospective private lesson students – children and adults – are required to schedule a trial lesson prior to registering for an entire semester’s worth of instruction.
- Students must provide their own instruments for trial lessons (drum set and piano are exceptions to this requirement). Students who attend trial lessons without an instrument may not be able to proceed with the trial lesson. Refunds or credits will not be provided should the instructor determine that it is not possible to proceed with a trial lesson due to the student not bringing an instrument to the lesson.
- A trial lesson is paid for in advance by the student at the instructor’s standard hourly rate. Students are not required to commit to an entire semester of instruction at the time they register for a trial lesson.
- Students wishing to continue lessons with an instructor following a trial lesson must commit to weekly instruction for the remainder of the semester.

- Once a trial lesson is completed, students may register for the remainder of the semester with the instructor with whom s/he had a trial lesson. If the student does not register for the remainder of the semester within one business day following the trial lesson, the lesson slot will be released and will become available to other prospective students.
 - It is possible to schedule another trial lesson with a different instructor if the student so wishes.
 - It is not possible to schedule repeated trial lessons with the same instructor.
 - Cancellation of trial lessons: Trial lessons canceled with a minimum of 48-hours' notice will result in a refund to credit card. In the case of trial lessons canceled due to family or medical emergency with less than 48-hours' notice, a refund will be made. Trial lessons cancelled or missed without adequate notice will not be refunded or credited.
